

To foster harmony and a unified brand system, we've established a color palette system across category brands and sub-brands. This approach balances centralized color control with the flexibility to express each brand's individual identity and market positioning.